

Erika Holzer

I attended the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, SD, from 2008 to 2012, where I graduated with a BA in Psychology and a Minor in Spanish. I moved back home to the Black Hills of SD and began working as a counselor at Black Hills Children's Home, a residential treatment facility for youth. Largely due to this work, I decided to further my education in the field of Social Work. I began my master's degree in social work (MSW) through the University of North Dakota in 2014 and graduated with my MSW in 2017. Today, I work as a therapist for foster children and families through Children's Home Society in Rapid City, SD. My fiancé and I recently bought our first home and will be married in September. My future plans are to remain in the Rapid City area and continue working in the mental health field. Thank you for your support in helping me reach my career and life goals!
